Round 4 Match Review vs GWS Giants – richmondfc.com.au

Giants down Tigers in Gather Round

Greater Western Sydney has snapped its three-game losing streak with a somewhat patchy 56-point win over last-placed Richmond.

The Giants showed some periods of absolute brilliance with their ball movement, but the Tigers closed the margin in the middle patches of the game, before GWS coasted away in the last in the 20.11 (131) to 11.9 (75) victory at Barossa Park.

It was GWS' highest score against Richmond in 15 years of matches.

The double-act of Finn Callaghan (37 touches) and Jake Stringer (in the first half) was particularly deadly charging out of the middle, with Clayton Oliver (eight clearances) doing the hard work on the inside to set up his mates.

Aaron Cadman, playing his first game for 2026 after a pelvis injury, was so sharp in the first quarter that he kicked three goals as the Giants piled on eight majors for the term.

The Tigers worked their way back into the game as debutant ruck Oliver Hayes-Brown rose in prominence and confidence, giving his midfielders first use, and they kicked four consecutive goals either side of half-time to cut the margin from 46 to 20.

Once again, it was Cadman who settled things down with a deceptively casual curling effort, breaking the Tigers' period of dominance, while second-gamer Ollie Hannaford kicked his first and second AFL goals in the space of three minutes.

Young Tigers key forward Liam Fawcett again showed some nice signs in game No.3, the South Australian reportedly securing 55 tickets for family and friends who saw him kick three goals, while Mykelti Lefau kicked four (three in the third-term) and laid some bone-crunching tackles.

Richmond faces North Melbourne next Sunday afternoon at Marvel Stadium.

ARMY

Richmond's VFL team will take on the Australian U18 Academy team on Saturday afternoon at IKON Park.

Eight AFL-listed Tigers will feature in the clash, including Luke Trainor, Tom Brown and Oliver Hayes-Brown, who join the side from the senior group last week.

Excitingly, top draftee Sam Cumming will also play, following his return from a shoulder setback that saw him play limited game time in the VFL's win over St Kilda two weeks ago.

Mohammed Yassine will also play his first minutes as he return to the side for the first time in 2026.

Leaders Harry Scott and Liam George will take to the field, alongside Leo Connolly, Daniel Lowther, Ry Cantwell, Olli Hotton, Sam Toner, Josh Pollocks, Reuben Hanson, Aaron Sharkie, Tom Ferguson and Sam Phillips.

The AFL-listed players also include Tom Burton, Zane Peucker, Noah Roberts-Thomson and James Trezise.

Young VFL-listed players Zaydyn Lockwood, Caleb Nancarrow and James Milner will also get a crack on Saturday afternoon.

The match will be live streamed on the AFL website, and to follow match updates, stay tuned to Richmond VFL on X and Instagram.

AFLW confirms big fixture shift for start of 2026 season

AFLW confirms big fixture shift for start of 2026 season

The 2026 AFLW fixture is set to feature four games played at AFL venues on the same day as men's matches.

The 2026 AFLW fixture will feature four double-header games with AFL matches, the competition's executive general manager Laura Kane has confirmed.

The matches will be played at AFL venues, marking a shift in AFLW fixturing away from smaller suburban venues to stadiums as the League aims to get the women's game in front of existing AFL fans.

Speaking at an AFL Axiom event on Thursday, Kane said the double-headers would be played early in the women's season, and would "usually" feature the same host team for both the men's and women's games.

"One way we can be bold is to play double headers in our big stadiums," Kane said of the AFLW's growth.

"So this season we'll play double headers, having men's and women's games played on the same day in the same bigger stadiums."

The details of which teams will host the matches will be confirmed closer to the AFLW fixture release.
