Signing News – Judson Clarke – richmondfc.com.au

Richmond's Judson Clarke has signed on for the 2026 AFL season, locking him in for a fifth year at the Club.

Injury Report – Week 10 – richmondfc.com.au

Mykelti Lefau: ACL, test

"I'm happy to say that he just has to get through one more session, and Kelts will be available for selection this week," Serpell said.

"He will be getting a bit of game time, which is exciting for Mykelti."

Tylar Young: ACL, 1-3 weeks

"Probably about a week behind Mykelti is Tylar Young," Serpell said.

"So he is excited as well, and I'm sure the fans are very excited to see him out there."

Samson Ryan: Foot, 1-2 weeks

"Samson is progressing quite well," Serpell said.

"I think we will look after him over the next couple of weeks and make sure we do the right thing by him.

"Hopefully, within the next week or two after that we'll see him out there, available for selection."

Mate Colina: Knee, 1-3 weeks

"Mate is doing well," Serpell said.

"We expect him to be available for selection in another week or two after this."

Dion Prestia: Achilles, 1-3 weeks

"Exciting to say, contrary to previous weeks, that we can actually bring his timeline earlier," Serpell said.

"We are hoping to see him out there in the next one to three weeks. He has been training well and has been pulling up relatively pain-free."

Taj Hotton: ACL, 6-9 weeks

"Not really a huge update on him from previous weeks," Serpell said.

"We still think he will be back in six to nine weeks at this stage, but again, he is going to be more and more involved in footy drills over the next little while."

"We will see him in a non-contact hat for a bit, then we will take the non-contact hat off him and get him involved."

Harry Armstrong: Hamstring, 7-10 weeks

"Similarly to Taj, not much of an update on Harry, so we will just bring his return to play a week forward now," Serpell said.

"He is progressing well and getting a mountain of work done from a running perspective at this point in time."

Josh Gibcus: ACL, 7-10 weeks

"I'm really excited to say that we can put a timeframe on Josh Gibcus' return now," Serpell said.

"So we expect him out there in the next seven to 10 weeks, and I think anyone out there watching his training at the moment will see that he is actually involved in a lot of footy drills at the moment."

"He is working at a relatively high intensity, so we will get a bit of work into him over the next little while and look forward to seeing him out there playing later this year."

Josh Smillie: Hamstring, TBC

"Unfortunately for Josh, he came off the track last week with a minor hamstring strain, it's actually so minor that we don't even know when it occurred," Serpell said.

"We are going to spend our time with him over the next few weeks, developing him athletically and making sure that we are doing the right thing for him, not only in the short-term, but in the long-term future."

"So we probably aren't going to put a timeframe on his return, and we are going to focus on his athletic development over the next little while."

Match Review – Week 9 vs Eagles – afl.com.au

A GOAL-SAVING tackle by Richmond defender Tom Brown has secured his side's two-point win in a tight contest against West Coast on Sunday afternoon.

With fewer than 30 seconds remaining and the Tigers up by two points, Eagles youngster Tom Gross ran inside 50 looking to launch a shot on goal, but Brown executed the perfect tackle to stop Gross in his tracks and ensure the Tigers won their third match of the season.

TIGERS v EAGLES Full match coverage and stats

It was a see-sawing affair all game with the lead changing 15 times throughout. Neither side was able to break free, but two behinds in the last ten minutes to Tom Lynch and Kane McAuliffe put the home side in front to win 11.15 (81) to West Coast's 11.13 (79) on Mother's Day in front of a crowd of 29,539 at the MCG.

Both sides entered the game making late changes before the opening bounce. For West Coast, captain Oscar Allen was withdrawn with knee soreness, as was the Tigers' defender Jayden Short. Allen was replaced by Harry Edwards, whilst Short's absence created a spot for James Tresize who started as the Tigers' sub.

The Tigers started strongly, kicking the first three goals of the game through experienced duo Lynch and Taranto as well as young forward Seth Campbell. In contrast, West Coast's experienced players, former Blue Matt Owies, former Tiger Jack Graham and premiership player Jamie Cripps all missed gettable shots at the other end.

Richmond coach Adem Yze would have been pulling his hair out when the Eagles kicked their first two goals 90 seconds out from the quarter-time siren. After controlling the majority of the quarter, the Tigers let West Coast back in the contest when the Eagles kicked goals through Cripps and winger Jayden Hunt to keep their team within reach.

The Eagles came out in the second quarter in the same manner they finished the first, kicking two further goals to make it four unanswered majors for the away team and shifting the momentum the Eagles' way.

Richmond fans would have been relieved when first-gamer Thomas Sims took a strong contested mark and converted for his first AFL goal to break the Eagles run. Sims, who is a carbon-copy of Tom Lynch, was called up for his first game after joining Richmond with pick No.28 in last year's draft.

It was goal-for-goal with the lead changing several times before the main break with Richmond heading into halftime with a meagre one-point lead.

The pressure lifted in the second half, slowing scoring for both teams. Former No.1 draft pick Harley Reid copped a big hit when he was bumped after releasing a kick, but the youngster shook off the Eagles medical staff and remained on the ground.

Crafty veteran forward Cripps kicked his third to put the Eagles in front, but the Eagles missed their next three opportunities allowing the Tigers to stay in the game.

Two late goals to Richmond, one through Rhyen Mansell and one from skipper Toby Nankervis gave the Tigers back the lead at the three-quarter-time break. Nankervis, who looked to be playing sore after copping a knock earlier in the quarter, made no mistake, kicking a captain's goal to put his side back in front to set the game up for a big final term.

The Tigers' lead was short-lived as Harley Reid opened scoring for the final term with a superb goal on the run from outside 50. But as Reid often does, an outstanding patch of play is often followed by a brain fade, as it was when he then gave away a 50 metre free kick after knocking the ball out of Hugo Ralphsmith's hands after he took a mark, gifting the Tigers a goal.

Scores were level with five minutes remaining, when Lynch took a huge pack mark at the top of the goal square, but the veteran went back and missed the simple shot, but though he kicked a point, it importantly put his side in front. McAuliffe added a second point, to put the Tigers two points up with less than three minutes remaining.

It looked as though the Eagles were going to break the hearts of the home crowd when Gross ran towards goal from 50, but the Brown tackle led to cheers from the grandstands when he saved the day and got his side over the line.

Tiger and Eagle late outs

There was plenty happening before the ball had even been bounced on Sunday afternoon with both sides making very late changes. For West Coast, captain Oscar Allen was withdrawn from the side at the final moment with knee soreness. Allen was replaced in the side by key defender Harry Edwards who spent the afternoon lining up on Tom Lynch. For the Tigers, Jayden Short was taken from the side also with knee soreness. Short was replaced in the side by James Trezise, who was named as the sub, pushing the original sub Kane McAuliffe onto the ground.

Sims like the young Tiger is ready to go

Tiger debutant Thomas Sims looks right at home at the top level. The 18-year-old actually looks so much at home that you could be forgiven to think there were two Tom Lynches on the field. Both blonde-haired forwards are 199cm and provided marking options inside forward 50. The two worked well together, often hitting each other inside fifty. Sims finished the day with a goal and two marks and six disposals, whilst Lynch's experience outclassed the Eagles kicking two goals, whilst also having 17 disposals and taking six marks.

AFLW – Dreamtime In Darwin 2025

Richmond will return to Darwin for the second consecutive year for the AFLW Dreamtime clash against Essendon this season.

The Tigers will again take on the Bombers at TIO Stadium in a powerful celebration of women's football and Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander culture.

Taking place in Round 3 of the milestone 10th season and coinciding with the first week of the AFLW's Indigenous Rounds, the match returns following resounding success in last year's inaugural AFLW Dreamtime clash in the the Top End, which saw thousands of fans pack the stands to cast the national spotlight on Territory talent and the local community.

The Dreamtime fixture has a proud history in the AFL Men's competition, and its expansion into the AFLW is a significant milestone that continues to grow. Hosting the match in Darwin last year was a landmark moment, reaffirming the Northern Territory's deep and enduring connection to Australian Rules football.

With more than 40 per cent of all registered players in the NT identifying as female, the NAB AFLW Dreamtime match will celebrate leadership in women's football and strengthening the AFL's commitment to inclusion, recognition and opportunity.

Richmond Football Club CEO Shane Dunne expressed the excitement of returning north.

"We are very grateful to have the opportunity to play our AFLW Dreamtime game against Essendon in Darwin again in 2025, building on what was a successful fixture last year," Dunne said.

"Dreamtime is a pivotal part of our Club, and it provides an opportunity for the football community to come together and celebrate Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander culture.

"Having this game in Darwin also allows us to showcase elite-level women's football to the Northern Territory and gives our players and the broader Club a chance to connect with the local community."

AFL CEO Andrew Dillon said it was fantastic to see Dreamtime return to the Top End in 2025.

"Dreamtime is such a wonderful tradition in the AFL landscape, and I am thrilled to see it return to the Top End for the second year in a row as a part of the NAB AFLW competition," Dillon said.

'Connection is something we have been very big on' - Hampson

Shaun Hampson caught up with Richmond Media for an update on the AFLW pre-pre season.

"Essendon and Richmond have such a rich history celebrating Indigenous culture and I'm sure fans of both Clubs will look forward to supporting the continuation of this match up across the W fixture.

"We know the Northern Territory has the highest proportion of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people relative to Australia's total population - around 30.8 per cent - so hosting games in the NT plays a key role in our vision to showcase the contribution of our First Nations people and connect more Indigenous communities to our game."

Sam Gibson, head of AFL Northern Territory, said the return of the match is a meaningful step forward for the game in the top End.

"As AFLW Dreamtime returns to Darwin for a second year, it's clear this match has already struck a powerful chord," Gibson said.

"We're proud to work alongside Richmond, Essendon, the Northern Territory Government and the local community to bring this celebration of women's football and Indigenous culture to life."
